Getting Started at GELMAN LIBRARY
During the semester, Gelman is open late, with 24-hour access on most days for students, faculty, and staff. Plus, online resources are available to you anywhere, anytime. Check the library website for hours and schedule changes. Your GWorld card is required to enter the library.

Books
Use the online Catalog to find books that are located here at GW, as well as items from the Washington Research Library Consortium (WRLC), which includes 8 other universities in the DC area.

Check out books with your GWorld card at the Check Out desk on the entrance floor (2) or use the Self Check machines located on the entrance floor (2) and 4th floor.

Study Areas
Available on the entrance floor (2) and 3rd through 6th floors, group-study rooms are available by reservation. Click “Study Room Reservations” on the library home page. Quiet-study areas are also available on the 3rd through 6th floors. A quiet Graduate Student Study Room is located on the 5th floor.

Consortium Loan Service
If the item you need is not available at Gelman, current GW students, faculty and staff may request books and articles using the Consortium Loan Service (CLS). Locate the item in the Catalog, then click on the “Request” link in the record. CLS loans are generally available for pick-up at Gelman within 2-4 days.
